NOMA LEMOINE, PH.D.

BIOGRAPHICAL SKETCH

Dr. Noma LeMoine's career in education spans 35 years. She is a nationally recognized expert on issues of language and literacy acquisition and learning in African American and other diverse student populations. She has written and spoken extensively on the topic and is a highly sought-after consultant to colleges, universities, and school districts nationwide. Dr. LeMoine's vast experience in education includes serving as a Language and Speech Consultant to Headstart Programs with primary responsibility for training early education teachers in instructional strategies that promote language and literacy acquisition in inner city pre-school students. She served as a classroom teacher, "Mentor Teacher" and a Language, Speech Pathologist and Diagnostic Specialist. Dr. LeMoine has over 25 years of experience in administrative positions including serving as program Administrator and Coordinator of the Los Angeles Unified School district's Speech, Language and Aphasia Programs, and as Principal, Investigator and Director of Operations of the NASA funded Maxine Waters Saturday Academy for Student Advancement in Math, Science and Communications, a proposal she wrote and was awarded $600,000 by NASA to implement. Dr. LeMoine has served over 10 years as Adjunct Professor at California Universities and colleges, two years as Commissioner on Education for the California Speech, Language and Hearing Association, and ten years as a member of the National Citizen's Commission on African American Education, an arm of the Congressional Black Caucus Education Brain Trust.

For twenty years, Dr. LeMoine served as Director of the Los Angeles Unified School District's Academic English Mastery Program and ten years as Director of the District's Closing the Achievement Gap Branch. In this role, Dr. LeMoine oversaw implementation of the District's closing the achievement gap initiatives intended to eliminate disparities in educational outcomes for under-achieving students. During this period the district saw improved academic achievement scores in both African American and Latino/Hispanic student populations. Dr. LeMoine directed in 81 schools the District's Academic English Mastery Program, which supported teachers, administrators, and paraeducators in effectively incorporating culturally and linguistically responsive pedagogy into core instruction. Under Dr. LeMoine's visionary leadership, the Academic English Mastery Program became the national model for addressing the language, literacy and learning needs for African American and other students for whom Standard English is not native. The Program has been featured on 60 Minutes, in periodicals including Education Week and Teacher Magazine, in the PBS Documentary "Do You Speak American" and has been lauded by the linguistic community as the exemplary instructional model for addressing the language acquisition needs of African American SELs.

Dr. LeMoine holds a Ph.D. in Education from the University of Southern California with a specialization in Language, Literacy, and Learning. She also she holds a Master's degree in Language and Speech Pathology and Audiology from California State University at Los Angeles, and a second Master's degree in Education from California Lutheran University, and recently earned a third masters degree in "Practical Theology" from The King's University. Her research interests and expertise include language and literacy acquisition in diverse populations, methodologies for improving learning in culturally and linguistically diverse populations. Dr. LeMoine writes curriculum, and has designed and conducted professional development for thousands of teachers, administrators, and paraeducators in school districts throughout the country. She consults with institutions of higher learning and K-12 schools relative to advancing learning in underachieving students and has conducted seminars and short courses at universities and colleges throughout the United States including Harvard University, Stanford University, Dartmouth College, University of California at Berkeley, University of California at Los Angeles, the University of Massachusetts at Amherst, University of Minnesota at Minneapolis, the University of Southern California and others. Dr. LeMoine has served on numerous California State Department of Education committees including as a member of the State Department of Education's Exemplary Schools Committee and over 5 years on University Accreditation Teams with the Commission on Teacher Credentialing. Her work has taken her on educational exchanges to Africa, India, China, Canada and the Caribbean, and more recently on mission to Thailand.

Dr. LeMoine has received many professional honors including, the California Speech, Language and Hearing Association, "Outstanding Achievement Award" (1988), and the "Lois V. Douglass, Distinguished Alumnus Award", from the Department of Communication Disorders at California State University, Los Angeles. In April of 1992, Dr. LeMoine was named FELLOW of the California Speech Language and Hearing Association, one of the organization's highest honors, and in June of 1995, she was the recipient of the NAACP. Legal Defense Fund "Black Woman of Achievement Award". In 1997, Mount St. Mary's College awarded Dr. LeMoine the "Cultural Fluency Award" in recognition of outstanding contributions to the development of cross-cultural understanding in the Los Angeles Community. In June of 2005, the ACSA bestowed upon Dr. LeMoine the Region XVI Valuing Diversity Award for her work in Los Angeles Unified School District toward closing the achievement gap. In February of 2008, CAAE bestowed upon Dr. LeMoine, the "Asa G. Hilliard III, Will to Educate Award" for distinguished service on behalf of African American students and in 2009, Dr. LeMoine was the recipient of the "Distinguished Educator Award" from the National Council of Negro Women.
